Enrollment Increases At Coastal

By ROD LEE
News Editor

An increase in Coastal Carolina's enrollment ranging between six and 12 percent is expected for the fall '78 semester.

Marsh Myers, director of admissions and registration, said a five-year growth plan for the college had projected enrollment for the current semester at 1700, but actual enrollment for the semester should exceed this projection and could be as high as 1800 students.

Enrollment for fall '77 was slightly over 1600.

This increase in enrollment has been spurred by the acceptance of nearly one thousand new students of whom approximately one-third are transfer students. Myers emphasized that the number of enrolled new students may not accurately reflect the actual number of new students who register and attend classes.

"That number (one thousand) is the number of people we expect, but we usually have between 17 and 19 percent 'no shows'," Myers said.

Myers stresses that this percentage admission is not highly competitive.

Of the estimated 600 incoming freshmen, 250 participated in four summer orientation sessions. This system was designed to eliminate the crowds and confusion caused by one large orientation session. The students who participated in the four sessions not only received more individual attention, but were also able to register using the Computer Assisted Registration (CAR) system.

Myers noted increases in the number of women with school-age children who are now attending classes at Coastal. Also, the number of retired or "senior" citizens has increased as more people take advantage of the no tuition policy for those of retirement age.

While the vast majority, 75 percent, of Coastal Carolina students still are from Horry and surrounding counties, the college is attracting students from out of state as well as other areas of South Carolina.

Also, students from 14 foreign nations, including Thailand, Sweden, Iran, Japan, Brazil, the Philippines, and Canada, are now enrolled at Coastal Carolina. Myers said, "We have a representative from all the continents except Australia and Antarctica."

Coastal Gets $3.8 Million

By MARY JEAN BAXLEY
Editor

Coastal Carolina's 1978-79 budget will be $3,835,472 according to Dr. D.L. Thompson, dean of administration.

Of this amount 72% will go for salaries and fringe benefits. Coastal pays the Columbia campus for services totaling $240,185.

A budget request of almost $71 million from USC was approved July 25 when the General Assembly overrode Gov. James B. Edwards' veto of the state budget.

The strongest opposition came from the senate where some senators said "higher education had been well taken care of in past years."

Despite a last ditch effort from the opposition, the senate approved the state budget 31-6 and the house approved it 77-29.

USC President James B. Holderman said he was "very pleased that we were able as a system to get this approved. We are pleased with the support that the General Assembly has given to the budget, especially full formula funding."

According to a university spokesman, it was a victory for the campus system because this was the first time all USC campuses were unified.

"Full formula funding" combines all campuses within with the USC system as a one line budget request. According to a university official, this is a tremendous victory for the four year campuses, especially Coastal Carolina, USC-Spartanburg and USC-Aiken.

All of the campuses had requested faculty and staff increases. New faculty positions for 1978-79 total 113 with new support positions totalling 115.

Singleton Announces Faculty Changes

By MARY JEAN BAXLEY
Editor

According to Dr. E.M. Singleton, vice president and director, nearly 2,000 undergraduate and graduate students are expected to attend Coastal Carolina for the fall semester. With 106 faculty members, Coastal will have 15 to one student-faculty ratio.

New faculty include Dr. Terry Barnette, assistant professor of chemistry; Dr. Leroy Dunsmore, associate professor of business administration; Cynthia Hodell, assistant professor of speech and theatre; Carl King, assistant professor of health education and physical education; Dr. Carol Schram, assistant professor of music; Dr. Carol Sherr, assistant professor of biology.

Also, Steve Taylor will be an instructor of health and physical education on a temporary basis.

New assistant librarians are Charmaine Czytomczyk and Mary Bull. Louis Mense is the associate director of admissions.

Pat Rogers will be working part-time as assistant dean of academic affairs. Rogers will continue teaching in the science department.

Dr. Sally Hare has assumed the position of director of graduate programs. Hare is replacing Dr. Sandy Baird. Baird has returned to teaching psychology full-time. Dr. Elizabeth Puskar has changed from education to director of counseling services.

According to Singleton, the new faculty positions bring Coastal Carolina to almost full strength.

Opinions/Editorials

Are You Committed To Coastal?

We have been privileged to witness many examples of commitment this past summer.

Our sister-in-law gave birth to their first baby. We were able to capture with our camera photographs that showed the proud parents with a look of love and commitment that was so beautiful. Their daughter is a very special baby - for her parents are totally committed to her future.

On August 18th, we were a witness at the first wedding to ever take place on the Coastal Carolina campus.

We heard vows spoken that committed two lives to each other, "until death do us part."

We took two multi-handicapped sons and went to the campus in Columbia for ten weeks this summer. We were determined to gain some of our journalism credits. What we learned was an eye-opener. We found out some surprising things about ourself. Now, we can say with confidence that we are committed to being a newspaper woman.

For us, commitment means many things. It can be commitment to teach and develop a baby into the adult that God wants her to be.

It can be the love and devotion between two people in love. It doesn't matter whether that commitment is between two young lovers or two silver haired people facing the sunset years.

You are here at Coastal because you want something. Are you committed to work and reach your goal?

We have the best location in the state for a college. We have a vice-president who cares about the college and the students. He and his staff are committed to Coastal's great heritage that has been given to us because of the dream of a few.

Coastal Carolina is blessed by beautiful and caring people who have seen that dream glow from one building to five buildings. And with the completion of the college center, we will have six buildings.

But, the dream continues to grow. We will soon be adding a $2.1 million math-science building that was approved this past July by the General Assembly.

And still the dream grows for soon we will be blessed with the Wheelwright Auditorium. It will be for Coastal Carolina but it will also be a focal point for the community from the surrounding counties to come together and enjoy cultural events.

With the great heritage that was started back in the fifties with a dream to a community college for all to enjoy... how can anyone not be committed to working together to obtain the best that we can out of ourselves and our fellow humans?

Will you join me in committing yourself to making this year a milestone in Coastal Carolina's growth?

What Are The Services Provided By The Student Development Division?

We felt like new and returning students would want to know some of the services available. Dr. Robert Squatriglia, dean of student development, answered our questions. For additional information about Coastal Carolina, see pp. 6-7.

WHAT ARE THE SERVICE'S PROVIDED BY THE STUDENT DEVELOPMENT DIVISION?

The Student Development Division is responsible for programs and services for students, including counseling, financial aid, veterans affairs, career planning, the points to be opened College Center, intramural athletics and, in general, a full range of student activities designed to enhance personal growth and development. The division oversees administration of the College

Center and provides support for a broad range of non-academic and non-athletic student activities, and it supports the judicial system. The principal mission of student development is the enhancement of growth and development of the whole person and to that end the division places its major emphasis upon coordination of the diverse activities failing under its jurisdiction.

GOALS ARE:

—To provide programs and services designed to contribute to the intellectual, emotional, social and physical development of students.

—To provide campus leadership and devise and conduct a comprehensive assessment of consumer/client needs as they relate to Student Development.

—To provide for increased involvement of students and faculty in the planning and evaluation of Student Development programs and services.

—To provide leadership for the development and expansion of career development programs and services for students.

—To develop strategies which personalize the campus experience for students.

—To provide continuing campus leadership in the area of architectural modification for the disabled.

—To continue to develop and support students and their organizations through effective advisement, consultation, and personal development programs, including leadership training.

While the Student Development division has multiple goals and has many roles in working with students, the ultimate goal is to foster and enhance student involvement and interaction in all aspects of campus life.

What is it like to be a basketball? If you ask me, I'll tell you it is just like being sports editor for The Chanticleer. I must say I felt somewhat like I think a basketball would feel while I bounced from office to office gathering information for the sports section of this first paper. This is not to be taken in any way as a complaint. In all my bouncing around I met a lot of smiling faces and helping hands. To all of you who helped to make that first impression of the athletic department a good one for me. I say thank you . . . and keep up the good work!

Last spring after I accepted the position of sports editor, Coastal's baseball team was making the headlines. They finished seventh in the nation and that really excited me. Hitting .321 as a team and leading the nation with 211 stolen bases Coastal finished 11th in the NAIA poll.

Steve "Cooter" Billingsley, stealing 49 bases and hitting .445, became Coastal's first ALL-AMERICAN making the NAIA Second Team All-American squad.

Billingsley carried the Coastal Carolina name overseas to Korea and Taiwan because he was selected to the NAIA-USA All Star team after making first team in the National Tournament. "Cooter" led the all-stars in hitting with a .327 average while stealing eight bases and producing eight RBI's. He has been invited to spring training by the New York Yankees.

Dr. John Farrelly is excited about Coastal's first intercollegiate soccer team. Let's make this a good first year for them by attending the games. Soccer can become a BIG sport on our campus if we're willing to support the efforts of our team.

With all the enthusiasm brewing in the athletic department, Coastal can't help but have a good year! As sports editor, I'd like to wish all of our athletes a good season.

If we can just start a few good cases of "SUPPORT FEVER", we'll have enough pep to keep our guys and gals going. These young athletes work hard for our school in ALL the areas of sports. Let's work for them and let them know we care!

Coastal Has Soccer Team

Coastal Carolina will field its first intercollegiate soccer team with a 15-match schedule this fall. Six of the matches will be played at home.

The team will be coached by Dr. John Farrelly, who directed soccer at the club level for the college during the past season.

The Chanticleer booters at this point host players David Paddock, David Reid, Jim Click, Kevin Holmok, Charlie Nofal, Warren Sessions, David Moore, Joe Gallagher, Mike Cicero, Randy Jordan and Clayland Whaley.

"I'm hoping to add some players by the first game," commented Dr. Farrelly, "and anyone who is interested should contact me. Practice starts Friday after registration."

The Chants open season on September 16 in Columbia against Allen University.

Taylor Named Women's Basketball Coach

Coastal has a new women's basketball coach, Steve Taylor, and he's no stranger on the Coastal campus. He has been Coastal's sports information director for four years, and has worked with both the women's and the men's basketball teams during this time.

"It is with this background," said Walt Hambrick, Coastal's athletic director, "that I am confident in giving him this appointment."

Coach Taylor was born in Evansville, Indiana, and grew up in Florida where he graduated from Plant High in Tampa. He served three years in the army and attained a rank of SGT. (which is also his initials). While in the armed services, he served 18 months in Viet Nam.

Taylor is a '76 graduate of Coastal Carolina. He was a 1976-77 Who's Who recipient, and staff writer for The Chanticleer.

The women's basketball team is for the women on this campus. Participation is encouraged because no outside recruiting has taken place this year according to Hambrick.

Concerning this season, Taylor said, "It's going to be a building year, but we hope a successful year."

The schedule is not complete at this time, but the first game will be against Moore's College on December .

Tennis Team Looks Good

By CAROLYN FLOYD
Sports Editor

Dr. Marshall Parker, men's tennis coach, is very optimistic about the upcoming tennis season. Coastal's record last year was 17-0.

"We are scheduling some schools that are tougher this year and dropping some of the weaker ones," Parker said. "We feel that this will better prepare us for the district tournament."

"Coastal lost only one player, Tim Hardee, last year, but several new players are coming and we hope to be stronger than last year," Parker said.

Eddie Gayon, who is from the Philippines, transfers as an all-American from U.S.C.-Sumter. Gayon won the National Junior College Championship last year in Texas. He is also the National Champion of the Philippines.

Luiz Penna is transferring from Presbyterian College. He played No. 1 for them and received an All-American Honorable Mention. He is a junior from Brazil.

Parker said, "Penna will be a great asset to our team. He is an outstanding player."

Another junior transfer from Presbyterian College is Mauricio Behar from Columbia, South America.

Dave Burgett transferred from U.S.C.-Columbia last year and was not eligible to play but will be playing this year.

In addition, several freshmen are coming to Coastal Carolina and will help on the tennis team. These players are Tetropino Marovino, a ranked player from Canada; Mark Yodice, a ranked player from Litchfield Beach; Jodie Davis, who has played on Conway High School's team for several years; and Bobby Wright from North Carolina.

During the fall term, the team will hold practices, play four matches and three tournaments.

Basketball Team Has Six Recruits

By CAROLYN FLOYD
Sports Editor

According to Russ Bergman, Coastal Carolina's basketball coach, the season looks promising with six new recruits in addition to five returning lettermen.

Back on the courts for the Chants this year are Seniors Steve Hardy, 6-2 guard from Atlanta, Ga.; Merele Britt, 6-8 center-forward from Lumerton, N.C.; and Rosey Bankhead, 6-9 center from Charlotte, N.C. Returning Juniors are Dwight Lighty, 5-9 guard from Hartsville, S.C. and Clay Price, 6-4 forward from Myrtle Beach.

New recruits for the Chants consist of two freshmen players, James Brown and David Grissette. James comes to Coastal from Socastee High School. He is 6-2 and will work for the Chants as a guard. David, also a guard, is 6-1 and attended West Brunswick High School in Ash, N.C.

The remaining four recruits are all juniors. Dennis Casey, a 6-6 forward from Montgomery County Junior College in Rockville, Md. Terry Miller, 6-3 guard, from Wingate Junior College in Greensboro, N.C. Two juniors are from Florida Junior College in Jacksonville, Fla. They are Forest Junck, 6-7 forward-center and David Thorbs, 6-6½ forward.

The team's first game of the season is November 17 against Wingate College and will be played at Coastal.

Golf Team To Play Sept. 15 - 17

By CAROLYN FLOYD
Sports Editor

No Chanticleer golfers graduated and left us. They are all back this year! In addition to these old favorites is one new transfer, Bob Dillon, who comes to Coastal from USC-Columbia according to Tom Cook, Coastal golf coach.

According to Cooke, there are several transfer students who have expressed an interest in attending Coastal, but have not registered yet.

Coach Cook said, "If we have the people try out and make the team that have expressed interest, Coastal Carolina will be a national contender in small colleges."

The golfers are scheduled to tee-off with a tournament set for September 15-17 at Fripp Island, S.C. The next tournament is the James Madison Invitational Tournament held in Harris-onburg, Virginia, September 21st.-24th.

October 8-10 finds our golfers at the Campbell-Atlantic Christian Tournament in Bouie Creek, N.C. Then they travel to Burlington, N.C., the 15-17 where they will play at Elon College.

November's tournament is the Dixie Intercollegiate, 16-19 in Columbus, Georgia. Here our golfers will compete against teams such as Wake Forest, Georgia, and Florida, all of which finished top ten in the nation last year.

"Our golf team won their own tournament last year that had 24 teams competing," stated Coach Cooke, "and never did worse than the upper 50% of any field we played in."

AN OPEN LETTER TO STUDENTS

Welcome to Coastal Carolina College . . . and thank you for the $25 you gave us. We're going to have a good time with that money. What $25? We're talking about the $25 all you full time equivalent (FTE) students give us every semester.

Tuition here at Coastal for FTE's is $315 a semester. Still, you're not actually paying $315 to spend four years of your life with your nose in a book. Believe it or not, $25 of that $315 is to show you a good time.

Twenty five dollars may not sound like a lot of money but if we have 1500 FTE's like you, $25 a person adds up to a total of $30,000.

Now—will you get your money's worth?

You won't if you don't attend any of the entertaining programs planned by Campus Union. You won't if you don't become involved in one or more of the 30 organizations on our campus. You won't if you fail to realize that Coastal has a fine intercollegiate athletic program. The Student Government Association has coined a phrase to describe that type of attitude. We call it "going through the motions of going to College."

What can we as your SGA do to assist you in getting your money's worth? Nothing . . . if you don't help yourself. The SGA urges you to take advantage of the situation. Listening to a history prof rap about the Oracle of Delphi is going to make your college life dull if that is all you do on campus. The choice is yours.

SGA also wants you to realize that we are here to serve you. You picked us. We didn't pick you. As a student you have responsibilities. You also have rights. If you think your rights have been infringed upon, tell us. It's our job to do something about it.

Again, you are a consumer purchasing a product. That product is an enjoyable and profitable college experience. It's up to us to provide that for you. It's up to you to help yourself.

Tim Meacham
SGA President

Campus Union

CAMPUS UNION is the major campus organization that programs educational and social activities for and with the college community.

Campus Union sponsors concerts, coffeehouse programs, discos, video programs and special programs such as comedy programs and student talent shows. Campus Union also cooperates with the Faculty Cultural Affairs Committee in sponsoring fine arts programs for Coastal Carolina College and the surrounding community. The Union has developed three committees to carry out its programming responsibilities: Contemporary Entertainment Committee, Fine Arts Committee, and Special Programs Committee. Students interested in participation are asked to contact the Campus Union Office located on the second floor of the College Center. Campus Union Coordinator for 1978-79 is Simon Spain. A tentative schedule of Campus Union activities is included in the Campus Activities Calendar.

WELCOME FRESHMEN

May I extend a hearty welcome to all new students who are here on our campus for the first time. I also wish to enthusiastically welcome back our continuing students while asking them to give a helping hand to those of you who are new.

Your administration feels that Coastal Carolina has much to offer a young person seeking an education and a better way of life. Our college is blessed with a highly qualified faculty, knowledgeable in their fields with diverse backgrounds and experiences. Active participation in the academic life of Coastal will result in the positive development of those intellectual aptitudes necessary to compete in and contribute to our society.

A very active Student Government and an interested Campus Union are here to help you enjoy your extra-curricula life. Student publications, clubs, social functions are available to you. Participation in these activities will aid in your development as a well-rounded person. We expected to have a very successful year in male and female athletics. Your support of our teams is not only essential, but will also enhance your college life.

Please get a good start at Coastal in your planned program of study by consulting with your faculty advisor, and registering for the correct courses, and begin the semester by doing your assigned work the first day. A good, solid start will carry you through the semester.

Once again, may I welcome you to Coastal, and I sincerely hope that the coming year will be the best year of your life.

Athletics

ATHLETIC PROGRAMS:

Coastal Carolina offers a wide range of athletic, recreational and physical development programs during the academic year.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS: Coastal Carolina College offers a dynamic and exciting intercollegiate athletic program. The College competes intercollegiate athletic program.

The women's athletic program maintains membership in the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW). The Lady Chanticleers schedule varsity competition in basketball, tennis, and volleyball.

Men's athletic teams compete in District Six of the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA). Varsity sports included in the men's athletic program are baseball, basketball, golf, soccer and tennis.

Athletic schedules for the coming year are printed in the Campus Activities Calendar. Further information regarding intercollegiate athletics may be obtained from the office of the Director of Athletics in the Williams-Brice Building.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS:

A wide variety of intramural athletic programs is projected for the coming academic year at Coastal Carolina College for both men and women. Competition in volleyball, basketball, tennis, table tennis and bowling are anticipated. All Coastal Carolina students are eligible to participate in intramural events. For additional information, contact the Office of Student Activities.

RECREATION AND PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT:

Coastal Carolina offers many recreational and physical development opportunities for students. The Williams-Brice Building is the center of this activity. The Kimbel Gymnasium, locker rooms, equipment rooms, and weight lifting equipment are housed in this building. The Joseph Holliday Tennis Courts, directly behind the Williams-Brice Building, feature four composition courts (two of which are lighted). A complex of athletic fields behind the tennis courts offers facilities for baseball, football, soccer and jogging. Students at Coastal Carolina also have the option of taking a wide variety of physical education courses for academic credit. For additional information regarding recreation, physical development or physical education programs at Coastal Carolina, contact the Office of the Director of Athletics in the Williams-Brice Building.

Publications

Coastal Carolina College offers three regular publications during the academic year. Students interested in contributing to these publications are asked to contact the Office of Student Activities located on the second floor of the College Center.

ATHENEUM, Coastal's yearbook, captures in pictures and in words the events comprising a year at Coastal Carolina College. The editor for 1978-79 is Cindy Beardsley.

ARCHARIOS is the Coastal Carolina literary magazine. Archarios is printed each year and consists of poetry, prose, and art work submitted by Coastal students, faculty members, and staff members. Editor for 1978-79 is Charles Batson.

THE CHANTICLEER is the campus newspaper. The newspaper is printed bi-weekly, reporting events of interest to students which have occurred and informing students of upcoming events. Editor for 1978-79 is Mary Jean Baxley.

Special Olympics

Coastal Carolina College is one of three local sponsors for the Horry Special Olympics.

This will be the fifth year that Coastal has helped.

Students help with track and field events.

Volunteers are needed each year to assist teachers with participants.

Last year over 700 mentally handicapped students participated.

You will read more about this in the spring. Be thinking about being a volunteer.

CAMPUS SHOP BOOKSTORE

Policies & Services

The Campus Shop Bookstore is one of several service facilities which is part of the auxiliary services of Coastal Carolina College. It is owned and operated by the CCC & USC and is a non-profit organization. It is provided to serve its students, faculty and staff.

Hours

Regular Hours

Mon.-Fri. - 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Saturday - Closed

Summer Session

Mon.-Fri. - 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Purpose

The purpose of the College Store is to provide the college community with the widest possible selection of goods and services of high quality at equitable prices with particular attention paid to academic requirements.

Services

The College Store is a self-service operation. We ask that you leave your notebooks, books, attache cases, etc. in the bookdrop at the entrance of the store. This habit will eliminate embarrassment for you and our sales staff when you are ready to leave.

Special Orders

All departments at the College Store are pleased to accept and expedite any order of a special nature. We require a 50% deposit of the value of the order.

Magazine Subscriptions

A complete magazine subscription service is available, and on many magazines students receive special rates amounting to as much as 50% off the original price.

Other Merchandise

You will find a great many other items in addition to books at the College Store. Art supplies, school supplies, toiletries, cosmetics, imprinted soft goods and glassware, room furnishings and many more.

Check Cashing

The College Bookstore will accept your personal check in payment for merchandise under the following conditions:

1. It is your own personal check or that of your parents.
2. The check must be made out for the cost of the merchandise purchased.
3. You present your student identification card. The check should be made out to USC. Your local address and student identification number must be written on the back. This information should be filled in before you reach the cashier. DO NOT FILL IN THE AMOUNT OF THE CHECK until the cashier has recorded all items on the cash register, totaled them, and added any applicable taxes. You may have an error in your own calculations.

Book Return Policy

If you drop or change a course, the text may be returned under the conditions stated below:

1. Returns MUST be accompanied by the REGISTER RECEIPT & A DROP OR CHANGE SLIP.
2. Books must be in absolutely new condition free of all markings with pencil or ink, other than our price mark.
3. Returns will be accepted during the first week of the term.
4. We are the sole judge in determining whether books returned are in new or used condition.
5. Returns are allowed only for a specified length of time at the beginning of each term.
6. Tradebooks and special orders are not returnable.

How Textbooks Are Selected

The teaching staff submits book requirements to the bookstore, indicating Author, Title, edition, etc. The bookstore then proceeds to order the books, after taking into account the sales history of each title, estimated number of students, etc. THE STORE HAS NO VOICE IN SELECTION OF TITLE OR EDITION.

Price and Price Changes: Selling prices of books are determined by the publisher. Those books that are not pre-priced by the publisher are marked by the bookstore in accordance with the list price shown on the invoice or packing slip which accompanies the shipment. If the publisher raises a price, the bookstore must act accordingly. Sometimes a paperback book will have a price sticker pasted over an old printed price. The publisher may do this if a supply of books is on hand in its warehouse when the price is increased. The store is charged based on the price that appears on the sticker. New Edition: The store orders the edition which has been requested by the teaching staff. Once the book has been updated and published in a new edition, the old one has no cash value.

Out Of Stock Textbooks Reorder Policy

There are many reasons why a store may run out of stock. Some of these are:

- An unusually larger enrollment than estimated.
- A member of the teaching staff may have chosen a title being stocked for another course without submitting a requisition.
- A clerical error in the bookstore's ordering process.
- A last minute change of instructor in a course.
- The title is temporarily out-of-stock at the publisher's warehouse and is not available to the bookstore.

Regardless of the reason that a book has gone out-of-stock, the store usually reorders most titles as soon as the shortage is discovered. If the book card on the shelf does not tell you if the title has been reordered, please check at the Textbook Information Desk.

An out-of-stock book can take as long as four weeks to arrive, even though the bookstore has ordered your book to be shipped via air mail, special delivery. Every college bookstore is ordering at this time and publishers fall weeks behind in shipping. It is suggested that you buy all of your books early to avoid the possibility of a long delay if the bookstore should sell out.

Cash For Your Books Anytime

The Bookstore will buy back used books provided they are your own books; they will be used again they are needed because of a depleted inventory and they are in good condition for resale.

Any textbook in edition, whether being used on this campus or not, will probably have some wholesale value. Major wholesalers are represented and their catalogs will be consulted for their offering price.

The Bookstore will represent the Wholesaler and buy your book for them. To sell your books, you do not need your sales receipt.

Alumni News

Association Elects Parker President

Coastal Carolina Alumni Association elected officers in June. These officers will serve until Homecoming 1979.

New officers are Clark Parker, '77, president; Skip Opalko '77, vice president - programs; Tommy Baker '68, vice president - membership; Terri Harris '77, treasurer; and Debbie Bagnal, '75, secretary.

Dr. Edward M. Singleton, Coastal Carolina College vice president, said three faculty members will serve as advisors to the association. Advisors are: Jean Roberts, nursing department; Jim Eason, business department; and Walter Hambrick, athletic department.

The 1978-79 budget was approved in July and two scholarship awards were announced; a $600.00 scholarship and a $300.00 scholarship.

Parker appointed Terry Brown '76, Hope Eskel '76, and John Rhodes '64 to the board of directors. Immediate past president Fred Haithcock '74 will serve as chairman of the board.

A scholarship committee was appointed to formulate a scholarship program and selection process. Appointees are Wayne Nobles, Terri Harris, and Liston Barfield.

A constitutional review committee was appointed at the July meeting to make recommendations to update the association's constitution. The members are: John O'Doherty, Hope Eskel, and Ernest Rabon.

O'Doherty will serve as the alumni association's first public relations director.

Another first was the appointment of Mildred Allen '75 as the association's official historian.

Tommy Baker, vice president - programs, announced the association will hold quarterly meetings which will be both business and social functions.

The membership goal for the association in 1979 is 200 members. The scholarship program is expected to expand in order to assist more deserving students.

Tutors Needed

People Organized to Save Minds is in need of volunteers to donate a few hours each week in tutoring a child who is academically behind their age group.

These students need individualized education which is not provided by the public school for lack of time and money. The majority of these slow learners have little or no reading skills.

Some of the benefits that can be gained from volunteering are as followed:

By becoming a tutor volunteer during your college years, each student begins a personal tradition. He/she develops a commitment to volunteering that will continue into adult life.

If you care to utilize your knowledge immediately, please join our campaign for volunteers.

Ravenel Loses My Vote

If anyone had asked me who I planned to vote for in the senate race, I would have said Pug Ravenel. That was before I met and listened to Ravenel. Now, I will be voting for Strom Thurmond and the reason is Ravenel.

During the run-off I was with Ravenel at Jim Clyburn's headquarters. I talked with Ravenel about his victory in the June primary.

Ravenel said, "I feel good to have won with a 56% vote in a four man race."

Concerning Clyburn's race Ravenel said, "I think it would be a wonderful statement of the South Carolina people to put into office a man as qualified and capable as Mr. Clyburn. It's the kind of affirmative action that I feel is good. He is an efficient, well qualified capable man. I have nothing against his opponent, Mr. Cambell. But, I think Mr. Clyburn has fresh ideas to offer."

A few minutes after making that statement, Clyburn announced to the crowd that he did not have enough votes to win and he conceded the election to Campbell.

I was still standing near Ravenel so I asked for his reaction to his friend's loss. "I'm hoping the Democratic Party will pull together to try to do their best. You run a very good race, but somebody has to lose. That's the way it is in politics," Ravenel said.

I am afraid that Ravenel is the type person who might pull for you when you're winning but leave you when you lose. The people of this state can not afford a good time friend. We need someone who is going to work for everyone and keep on working even when the going gets tough.

I suspect Ravenel does not have the stamina to fight for what he believes. As a matter of record I'm not sure I know what he stands for. I know he is opposed to Thurmond.

I met Nancy Thurmond and two of the Thurmond children recently and I went into the interview rather skeptical. I had visions of a spoiled politicians wife.

What I found was a women who's very voice reveals a love and devotion to Thurmond and their family. I found her to know and understand political issues and to be in touch with the needs of the average person in our state. She is truly Thurmond's greatest asset and an asset for the people of our state.

I believe Ravenel will be a good politician someday, somewhere but just as the time was not right in the past because Ravenel had not been a South Carolina resident long enough. I think the time is not right now because he is not one of us (the average tax payer). He's like a spectator at a ball game who just sits there but never joins in.

My vote will be for Thurmond. I believe it is a vote for the people of our state.

A Critical Odyssey ...

By BUZ MARTIN
Feature Editor

The late Rod Serling was, along with Ernie Kovaks, Milton Berle, Paddy Chayefsky, and a handful of others, one of the great innovators of television's formative years. His brilliant teleplays, such as "Requiem for a Heavyweight" are among the classics of that era. In 1959, at the height of his career, Serling, introduced a startlingly original program called "The Twilight Zone." That show set a high standard for science fiction and fantasy on television which has seldom been approached since.

The success of "Twilight Zone" was based upon good, solid story-telling, excellent direction, and first-rate acting. Along with "Naked City" and "Route 66" it demonstrated that a weekly television series need not be a mindless, formula-written exercise in vapidness. By constantly respecting the intelligence of his viewers, Serling attracted a following that is still strong fifteen years after the show's last network season.

Most of the stories on "The Twilight Zone" were written by either Serling himself or one of two other fine wordsmiths, Richard Matheson and Charles Beaumont. The titles themselves were original and evocative: "Of Late I Think of Cliffordville", "The 7th is Made Up of Phantoms", "Hocus Pocus and Frisby", "And When the Sky Was Opened . . .", "The Monsters are Due on Maple Street", and "Little Girl Lost", my all-time favorite episode. Then there was the adaptation of Ambrose Bierce's classic, "Occurance at Owl Creek Bridge," and "I Sing the Body Electric," scripted by Ray Bradbury from his own wonderful short story.

The show ran on NBC for five years, and maintaining its overall high quality was a constant uphill battle for Serling. His second attempt at this type of program — with a stronger tendency toward horror-fantasy was a near-total failure called "Night Gallery." With the exception of a few standout episodes directed by the likes of Stephen Spielberg, the program was a hodge-podge anthology of dismal drivel. Unwisely, the producers of "Night Gallery" refused to give Serling complete creative control of the series, and he reportedly came to regret his association with it. Toward the end of the show's run, his only connection with it was the introductions he was bound by contract to deliver in that marvelous voice of his. And that was far more than it deserved.

Those among you who are students of the genre may have taken note of the fact that I have neglected to mention "Science Fiction Theatre," a show which aired many years prior to "The Twilight Zone." Anyone who has ever seen that program in syndication will understand that omission. It was a thudding bore.

Of the later attempts to transmit the wonders of SF through the medium of video, there were few successes. "The Outer Limits" was sporadically good, despite an irritating predilection for big bad monster stories. The Invaders was essentially a rehash of an extremely popular series by the same producer, "The Fugitive," given a few "sci-fi" trappings and simi-glitz special effects.

So it was left to Gene Robbenbury to create Star Trek, which many consider to be the ultimate in televised SF. While I don't share that opinion, I believe that the series did, on occasion, impart a strong sense of wonder. Still, it took a massive letter-writing campaign on the part of concerned fans to keep the show on the air for three seasons. Years later, in syndication, it went on to become a brilliant success. There is no doubt that it was a contributing factor in the current trend toward SF and fantasy in the entertainment media.

There are (I'll use the present tense here, since the show is ever with us) perhaps a dozen or so episodes of "Star Trek" that are exceptionally good. Most of the rest are mediocre, and a few are nothing but hackwork. The best episodes are those scripted by such noted science fiction writers as Harlan Ellison, Theodore Sturgeon, Norman Spinrad, and David Gerrold. Most critics seem to agree that the real standout, in terms of characterization and plot, is Ellison's "The City on the Edge of Forever." Gerrold's humorous "The Trouble With Tribbles" is a distant second.

The main failing of Star Trek (and here's where I alienate all my Trekkie friends) is its general lack of originality. Most of the stories are derivative of SF themes that fell out of vogue three decades ago in the science fiction magazines, after having been worked to death. Even worse, many are rehashes of the same theme. It goes something like this: Kirk and the gang stumble upon a planet which is all screwed up. The natives (almost always humanoid, impossible enough) are being held intralred by some diabolical person, or creature, or computer.

The Enterprise crew gets involved despite that non-interference directive they're always jawing about. After a bit of "chaste dalliance" between Kirk and the cutest space cookie on the planet, and a few crisp exchanges between Spock and McCoy, they overthrow the despotic entity of the week. Thus is restored Truth, Justice, and the American Way to another backward outpost of the final frontier.

When the show was a weekly offering, this sameness of plot wasn't quite as noticable, but when viewed every day — as it often is in syndication — certain imprints come to be recognized which indicate that an episode was cast in that same tired old mold. For example, did you ever notice the Expendable Crewmen? These are the hapless clods who are chosen to beam down with any combination of the series regulars onto strange or hostile planets. Invariably, these ill-fated fellows get their s--t blown away. Check it out for yourself. It happens every time.

Whatever its shortcomings, however, Star Trek is a masterpiece compared to much of the recent, and current, video excursions into the field of SF. Thankfully, "Logan's Run" was cut short, and "The Man From Atlantis" drowned in the Nielson Sea. We still have such abominations as "Project UFO" and "Fantasy Island" to contend with, but hopefully they will soon be put out of our misery.

Also wretched beyond endurance are the bionic shows and the comic book adaptations. Now, comics are one of my vices. I've been collecting them for 20 years, so I'm definitely not prejudiced against them. But let's face it folks, TV superheroes are a bad joke. With the exception of Superman, the comics just don't translate well into the live-action media. Animation is the only vehicle for that type of fantasy. I shudder to think what they're going to do with my hero, Dr. Strange, next season. (I'll admit, though, that however lousy her show is, Lynda Carter is a wonder for sure. GOSH WOW!)

The upcoming season promises to bring more SF into our homes than ever before. The big newsmaker is Star Wars lookalike, "Battlestar Galactica." Expect it to be derivative to the point of embarrassment, but full of brilliant special effects, thanks to Star Wars SFX wizard John Kydstra. Reportedly, the similarity between BG and SW is so great that Dykstra is being sued as a rip-off by George Lucas.

And that old workhorse of the spaceways, Buck Rogers, is being revived for the tube. David Gerrold is the story editor, and he reportedly has a few big names in SF turning out scripts, so it may be interesting. I suppose that if they must dig up old space-opera heroes, they could do a lot worse than ol' Buck, since he is the archetype for all the others.

The "Roots" of televised SF may turn out to be a multi-part special based on Ray Bradbury's hauntingly beautiful space fantasy, "The Martian Chronicles." If it comes anywhere near the book, it should prove to be one of the most spectacular programs in the history of television.

Another promising event will be a televised version of Aldous Huxley's powerful novel, "Brave New World." Then, there's that "prequel" to Harlan Ellison's oddball tragi-comedy, "A Boy and His Dog." The pilot episode, which NBC has been sitting on for a year now, is called "Blood's a Rover," and we might just get to see it this fall.

Obviously, science fiction will continue to be a part of television fare for some time to come. It remains to be seen whether or not it will live up to the standards set by Rod Serling. If it doesn't, we'll just have to settle for reruns of "The Twilight Zone," and maybe an occasional "Star Trek."

Leadership Conference Set For Sept. 18 - 19

Leadership Conference will be held at Coastal Carolina September 18-19 from 6-10 p.m. According to Tim Meacham, SGA president, all clubs and organizations will be required to have a representative present.

"The objective of the conference is to get leadership among clubs and to combat apathy on campus", Meacham said.

The first night of the conference will focus on time management and the problem of student apathy. SGA hopes to be able to offer advice on how to avoid apathy.

The second night will have accounting of club budgets as its central point. An explanation of the D900 account (student allocations) and how it works will be given. Also, new request forms will be explained to club leaders.

The $25 that comes from student account fund will be explained according to Meacham.

An evaluation will be taken each night to show what the representatives feel they have received from the conference.

ARTICLES POLICY

The faculty, staff, and students of Coastal Carolina may submit articles to the Chanticleer. These articles should be submitted no less than seven business days before the publication of each issue. During the Fall 1978 semester The Chanticleer will be published on the following dates: September 20, October 4, October 18, November 1, November 15, November 29, and December 13. All articles should be submitted to The Chanticleer office in Room 106 of the Student Union Building.

IRS CHANGES TAX ASSISTANCE HOURS

Beginning August 2 the Internal Revenue Service office in Conway will be open for Federal tax information and assistance on the 1st and 3rd Wednesdays of each month from 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Located at Coastal Mall Shopping Center, the office's hours are being changed to provide assistance to taxpayers when the demand is the greatest.

LEARNING RESOURCES CENTER

The Learning Resources Center has foreign language tapes, curriculum texts, phonograph records, slides, and typewriters available for use by students. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information contact LRC Director Scott Johnson in AC 201.

SUN PUBLISHING COMPANY WINS SPECIAL OLYMPICS AWARD

Sun Publishing Company (Sun News and Conway Field and Herald) won an Honorable Mention Citation from Special Olympics, Inc. of the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation. These are the only South Carolina newspapers ever to receive this award. Fewer than twelve papers in the country won it for 1977 coverage of local Special Olympics programs. Horry County Association for Retarded Citizens, Horry County Department of Education and Coastal Carolina College are the local sponsors of Special Olympics.

Are you inspired?

The Chanticleer needs writers, illustrators, advertising salespersons, copy editors, and persons interested in newspaper production and layout. Apply in person to any newspaper staff member.
